Local participants raise $18,000 in 2024 Gutsy Walk

BY JOEY LIGHT On Sunday, June 2, more than 4,000 Canadians participated at 50 locations across Canada as part of Gutsy Walk for Crohn's and Coli-tie

Two Moosomin women, 17-yearold Charlie Leslie and longtime Gutsy Walk fundraiser Nancy Apshrum, raised a total of $18,000 between them.

tween them. This year's fundraiser across the country raised $2.2 million to date for Crohn's and Colitis Canada to invest in finding cures and improv-ing the lives of those affected by Crohn's disease and ulcerative coli-tis. Since 1996, Gutsy Walks have related close to $55 million raised close to $55 million.

Charlie Leslie says this year's charine Lesine says mins years fundraiser was a success. "This year was my fourth year going to the Gutsy walk and it had a great turnout this year, I'd say double the amount of people than last year went, and I raised $4,600 this year which is more than last year," she says. "This year they had a dunk tank and two doctors from Regina came and we could pay $5 to try and dunk them in the tank. They had food and drinks you can buy and all the money made at the walk goes to Crohn's and Colitis.

The Gutsv Walk is to raise monev so we can get more advancements in the medicine. Only two years ago we were driving to Saskatoon to the doctors and switching my medication a lot to find one that works for me.

"Now there is only one gastroen-terologist in Saskatchewan which is my doctor in Regina, who only treats adults. But since mine is so extensive he took me on. I have to go for scopes in Regina and can now do my blood work in Mooso-min, we just don't have the equip-ment and doctors in town to do it here yet." Leslie says it's a challenge living with Colitis. "They usually don't find any signs of Crohn's or Colitis when you are a child but they found mine very early. I was 11 years old when was first diagnosed with Colitis and this year I was diagnosed with Extensive Ulcerative Colitis which looks like Crohn's and Colitis together which is why they originally thought I had both. Being in high school while having a disease like this is very hard, I always felt very self conscious and did not want to talk about it. I find now I am more open about it and want to share my so that we can raise aware ness and help get donations to keep advancing the research for Crohn's and Colitis to help myself and any-one else going through the same thing." thing.

Nancy Apshkrum has been raising money at the Gutsy Walk every year for many years, and says she appreciates the community support.

"I want to say thank you to the Spectator as well as to the com-munity of Moosomin in general, for their unwavering support year after year after year. For me it's 25 years this year, and the commu-nity has always been very support ive, as has the Spectator. I raised $13,370 all thanks to the support of everyone and we are very thankful to the community and The World-Spectator."

Celebrating 50 years this year, Crohn's and Colitis Canada is on a relentless journey to transform the lives of people affected by Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis by finding the cures for these lifelong diseases and improving the quality of life of everyone affected.

Nepali journalist Doma Sherpa at the top of Mount Everest

From success as a journalist to reaching the peak of Mount Everest: Nepali journalist has had a life of adventure

BY ASHLEY BOCHEK

Doma Sherpa has led a life full of advenbond Stepart has led a life full of adver-ture. Growing up in a small community in the mountains of Nepal, she had to over-come the objections of some to become a journalist, and also overcame all of the challenges on a three-month ascent to the summit of Mount Everest.

Sherpa was in the area last week visit-ing her friend Barb Widger of Virden, who met her on a trip to Nepal several years ago. She visited the World-Spectator on Tues-day explaining her journalism career and climbing Mount Everest. The interview follows:

Tell us a little bit about your life grow-ing up in Nepal. I grew up in Nepal near Mount Everest. My childhood was a little bit hard and a little bit good.

What is it like being a journalist in Nepal?

Iournalism in Neval is challenging for us because I belong to the Indigenous community of the Sherpa and our women aren't usually allowed to work in the journalism sector because of our culture. Children normally go to school only up to the tenth grade. Culturally, they say once the tenth grade. Culturally, they say once you're done 10th grade then you can go to work. That's the tradition. They don't fo-cus on the media sector. They are saying 'Oh this is not good for a woman.' And journalism is a very challenging job in Ne-pal. In our communities there are still few women and men working in the journal-ism sector because of the language prob-lem. We speak our ethnic language, Sher-pa, and our national language is Nepali, so when we speak in the Nepali language some people say it is not clear. If our inforso when we speak in the Nepali language some people say it is not clear. If our infor-mation is clear and our voice is clear then there is no problem now. When I started university to study me-dia, I took a class to improve my Nepali language to be a better journalist. After that, I worked for my internship on the ra-dia, the nore I was done my internship the tranship. dio, then once I was done my internship I wasn't hired, because my Nepali language was not clear, so I was not selected. After that I improved and started to work in online media as a reporter. Then I did a talk show on the radio, and then National television also

Is there freedom of expression in Nepal? Yes, we wrote everything—especially in areas like tourism in Indigenous commu-nities. We frequently wrote about every-thing. That is no problem in Nepal.

How did you get into journalism?

When I was a child every time the news came on the radio in Nepal, we listened to everything, whether it was 7 am or the 7 pm news. It is so important. Everyone listened to the radio in Nepal at that time. It talked to my parents and told them I want-ed to join the media, but everyone was like 'Doma is going to be a journalist for a profession!' just because it wasn't traditional.

The area where I grew up was isolated. It would take four days to walk to the city Nepali journalist Doma Sherpa visited the World-Spectator last week. from my family farm. Three years ago people didn't want to allow for the road, they didn't want to pay for the land, but my father bought us some land and said 'A road is important,' then we got this agriculture road. It makes it much easier. We grow kiwi, ginseng, Nepali herbs, and apples, just about everything.

What is your proudest moment as a journalist?

My big achievement is studying to be a ournalist and then after that my summit to Mount Everest. That is my big achieve-ment. Another is working with women. I am involved in different organizations which are voluntary. I started working for this Indigenous youth organization. In 2019, I was one of 50 women from Nepal selected to be featured in a book because of their contributions, and making a difference. I am grateful.

How did you decide you wanted to climb Mount Everest?

In 2014, I was working with a social organization for our community, a media group. We encourage the youth who are interested in the media. I was working for this organization, also for Gurkha FM. I would do a lot of interviews. There were a lot of climbing Sherpas who died and their bodies were taken to Kathmandu. I saw everything. Wives and Moms, Dads, chil-dren, everyone was crying. I was thinking, I'm a journalist and I'm in the Sherpa community also. So I planned to go to Mount Everest because I'm a journalist and I can go there and see what is all going on there and so after that I decided I was going.

How did you train for it?

How did you train for it? In 2014 and 2015, I was planning the climb. Mentally I prepared myself. Then, I talked to my family. I talked to the tourism minister also saying I could do it because Mount Everest is a tourist attraction in our country. Nepal tourism department, they belong to the Mountaineering sector and I talked a lot to them.

I prepared for myself. In Kathmandu there is a lot of rock wall climbing. Every week I was going to climb, to prepare for Mount Everest. In December 2017, I sum-mitted Island Peak and I realized then I was prepared for Mount Everest. In 2018, I summitted to Mount Everest. My first attempt wasn't successful. After that, I came back to base camp and then I went a second time all the way up

What is it like climbing Mount Everest and how difficult was it? It was very difficult. When we went to Mount Everest we didn't know if we would come back or not. It was like 50/50. Life is not sure at Everest. Every day we would listen to the avalanches.

Widger adds: It's like listening to thun-der except it is the ice falling and you know the next morning you are going to walk through that.

Sherpa continues: We went to base camp, to Camp One to get acclimatized for the climb and then when we came back there was an avalanche and the path was closed. Ice protection came and they fixed it, then we could keep going.

How long did it take to reach the top? It was three months from Kathmandu to the summit and then to come back to Kathmandu is about three months

How did it feel being at the top of Mount Everest?

I thought I was in the heavens. Nothing feels like it. I am so lucky because when I reached the top there was no wind. It was clear and you could see everything. From the top you could see China. It was amaz-ing. I can't explain the feeling. There are mountains all around. Everest is the top and all mountains below, are on every side, everywhere.

How long did you stay at the summit? I was there from 5-5:30, I stayed at the top. I am enjoying it all. This is my life's big achievement. Coming down is the hardest part when climbing Mount Everest. We used up all our energy going up, so coming down takes a long time and you've used up all your energy. Everyone just wants to get down.

Why are you here in Saskatchewan and Manitoba today?

Today I am here visiting my friend Barb. I live in Toronto now but we met in 2019, about five years back. I want to see the flatland. Winnipeg to here it was a straight flat road. This is my first time out in Sas-katchewan. We are going to go see the Grasslands National Park.

Now that she lives in Canada. Sherva is hoving to become a lawyer.

LPGA stars heading in different directions

The recent U.S. women's open golf championship featured two superstars heading in opposite directions — Nelly Korda n the midst of her rise to legendary Hall-of-Fame status (even though she took a bit of a detour at the Open) and 15-time winner Lexi Thompson, 29, a child star who announced before the tournament that she plans to retire from professional golf at the end of this season.

Artifact stolen from Old George in Whitewood Thief believed to be from Manitoba

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

George Chopping takes pride in showing his col-lection of items from a bygone era. To hold some-thing in your hands from 200 years ago brings a whole new appreciation for the item, connecting visitors to Old George's Museum & Hidden Village in Whitewood with the past. However, every once in awhile, someone decides that their greed is too greet to ignore and items mysteriously disappear. Such is the case with an Indigenous artifact dat-ing back to the 1850s—a black 'war club' quite unique in its design. Chopping noticed the item missing over the May 25-26 weekend, and recalls touring a group of May 25-26 weekend, and recalls touring a group of people through his home shortly before the artifact was stolen. He remembered three people visiting the museum on that fateful day, a couple whom he was leading through his bottle room where Chop-ping is piecing together glass collected from the Manitoba Glass Company site near Beausejour in 1070. The ather mela did not entire on with the 1979. The other male did not continue on with the tour

"This guy says, 'well, I'm in a hurry. I gotta go'," Chopping recalls, adding that he told the visitor to sign the guest book before he left. "He didn't sign the guest book before he left. "He didn't sign the guest book but he left with the war club." While Chopping didn't have a chance to see what kind of vehicle the man–believed to be be-tween 25 to 45 years old—was driving, he thinks the thief may reside in central Manitoba. The war club has been part of Chopping's collec-tion for the past eight years. All black, the head is covered in brass buttons and features a metal point. "It was quite a nice honour to get it," he said of obtaining the war club. "That one there was my pride and joy." A wealth of historical information, Chopping explained how this war club in particular came to bear such unique features. 'This guy says, 'well, I'm in a hurry. I gotta go','

pany and that—traded metal points, or they had blacksmiths that made metal points and that was traded to them," he said, also elaborating on the finer details of the brass buttons decorating the war club. "When you look at them closely with a

This isn't the first time someone has decided to steal from Chopping. "You have 500 or 1,000 people go through, and they're just great, and then you get one person that has no scruples at all," Chopping remarked. While many items are eventually returned— competime actived through at recolling

Moosomin Report RCMP

BY CST. TRINA BRACE

Protect yourself from theft

Another busy week for your local RCMP, and we will start off by reiterating some of the information we provided last week, specifically about farm thefts:

 Lock your vehicles and equipment. Don't leave valu-ables, tools or keys in them.
 Lock and secure your home, outbuildings and slip tanks • Consider lights with motion sensors, as well as a

 Consider infinite with industry setsors, as were as a monitored security or alarm system.
 Report suspicious people and/or vehicles to police.
 Report crimes, even if they are small, to police as soon as possible. When all crimes are reported to the police, officers get a clearer picture of the types and numbers of crimes occurring in their area. This information helps them launch future police projects, initiatives and education campaigns.
Also be sure to safely store your firearms, whether in your home or transporting in a vehicle. Especially don't leave unsecured firearms in unoccupied homes or vehicles

Borrowed vehicle abandoned

On May 30, an abandoned vehicle was reported in the RM of Walpole. The registered owner was contacted and retrieved it—a family member had borrowed it and left it on the side of the road.

Static line 911 call from business

On May 30, there was a 911 static line call from a lo-cal business. If the RCMP contacts you or your business about static line 911 calls, this is usually a problem with the phone lines, so you may be asked to contact your tele-phone service provider to get the line serviced.

Possible disturbance

On May 31, members received a 911 call about a pos-sible disturbance in Moosomin. Members attended and provided a female with a ride back to her home.

Pickup truck hit center median

On May 31, members were called out to a report of a pickup truck that blew their tire and hit the center median. Police, fire and EMS all responded.

Spree of thefts began n June 1, unbeknownst to our members, the spree of vehicle/property thefts from a group out of Manitoba started with members receiving a BOLO (be on look out) from Manitoba RCMP regarding a stolen pickup truck. Patrols were made and the associated stolen vehicle was not located ... yet ...

Tailgating issue On June 1, members received a complaint of a semi driver tailgating another semi driver, but then the tailgating semi pulled off the road at a truck stop so it was no longer an issue.

Calls about property dispute On June 1, members received 911 calls about a property dispute. Division of property is a civil matter and RCMP encourage those involved in the division of property con-tact a civil lawyer to assist.

Break and enter in RM of Martin

Dr June 1, members received a 911 about a break and enter and theft at a farm in the RM of Martin that occurred on On June 1. Members are still investigating. RCMP is requesting anyone with information about this theft to contact Moosonin RCMP by calling 306-435-3361. Information can be submitted anonymously through CrimeStoppers by calling 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or by submitting a tip online at www.crimestoppers.com

Person ran out of gas On June 1, there were several 911 calls from a person that ran out of gas and wanted members to assist but members were busy with priority calls and unable to assist. RCMP recommend that people watch their fuel gauge so you don't end up walking when you run out of gas, and take a cell phone with you so you can call your friend to help if you need, instead of using 911.

Arrest for impaired driving

On June 1, members received a report of a suspected impaired driver. An adult male was located and arrested for impaired operation and the vehicle was impounded.

Missing young adult male

On June 2, members received a complaint about a miss-ing young adult male that left a party intoxicated. The male was located and provided one free night stay at the Bed and Breakfast and was released once sober.

Riding dirt bike around Maryfield

On June 2, RCMP received an anonymous complaint about someone riding a dirt bike around Maryfield. Members were not able to respond at the time.

Theft of cigarettes in Moosomin

On June 2, RCMP received a 911 call about a theft of cigarettes from a business in Moosomin. The business has CCTV footage available and members are still investigat-ing. RCMP is requesting anyone with information about this theft to contact Moosomin RCMP by calling 306-435-3361. Information can be submitted anonymously through CrimeStoppers by calling 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or by submitting a tip online at www.crimestoppers.com

Farm theft in RM of Silverwood

On June 2, members received a report of a break and enter and theft some time overnight from a farm in the RM of Silverwood. Among the stolen items were numer-ous Milwaukee tools and a dirt bike. Members are still investigating. RCMP is requesting anyone with informa-tion about this theft to contact Moosomin RCMP by calling 306-435-3361. Information can be submitted anony-mously through CrimeStoppers by calling 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or by submitting a tip online at www.crimestoppers.com.

Dog attacks another dog

On June 3, RCMP received an animal complaint about a dog getting loose in Welwyn and attacking another dog. The complainant didn't want the owner of the dog living in Welwyn.

Vehicle stolen and fuel theft

On June 3, RCMP received a complaint of a Hyundai Tucson stolen from Moosomin. The vehicle was then in-volved in a theft of fuel in Whitewood. The vehicle has since been recovered and members continue to investigate in conjunction with Manitoba RCMP.

Possible impaired driver

On June 3, members received a complaint about a pos-sible impaired driver leaving Moosomin in a semi. Mem-bers were not in a position to intercept, so a BOLO was sent to Manitoba RCMP.

Missing child located On June 3, RCMP responded to a 911 call about a miss-ing four year old. The child was located by family short-ly after the initial 911 call and members were no longer needed.

Theft in progress leads to Crime Watch Advisory and car chase

On June 4, at approximately 8 am, RCMP was dis-patched to a theft in progress call. Members soon learned that two pickup trucks were in the complainant's yard and when the complainant drove over to the trucks, the two trucks drove toward the complainant's truck, colliding with it. Members worked quickly to try to locate the trucks, and soon a CrimeStoppers post and Saskatch-ewan Crime Watch Advisory were sent out asking for assistance from the public. Moosomin and Broadview members were throughout the area, along with several RCMP members from surrounding detachments and other Peace Officers including SERM and Sask Highway Patrol. RCMP continued to get several reports of sightings of the trucks and many attempts were made to locate and stop the vehicles, but they did not stop for any police vehicles. At approximately 5 pm, one of the vehicles (the white GMC) was located in a field south of Whitewood, on fire. RCMP had just learned that the black F350 (that I mentioned earlier in this report... back on June 1) was in the area and related to the white GMC and the grey Chev Duramay that rammed the civilian vehicle acalier in the Duramax that rammed the civilian vehicle earlier in the day. During the ensuing search and patrols to locate the vehicles, two police vehicles were involved in a collision.

Break in at residence in Maryfield

On June 4, RCMP received a report about a break-in at a residence in Maryfield. Members determined that the complainant just wanted the person spoken to.

Theft of fuel from gas station On June 4, RCMP received a report of a theft of fuel from a gas station in Moosomin, that had occurred on June 1. Members are following up.

Truck parked in ditch

On June 4, RCMP received information about a grey F150 that was parked in the ditch on the grid road southeast of the Moosomin Hospital. When members patrolled, the vehicle was no longer there.

Found backpack was returned On June 4, RCMP got a report of a found backpack in Moosomin. The property was picked up and held at the Moosomin Detachment. Members located the owner of the property and let them know that they can pick it up at the detachment, and also reminded the owner of the property of their conditions not to go to a specific address. The backpack was later picked up by the owner.

911 misdial

On June 4, RCMP members followed up with a 911 call that turned out to be a misdial.

Fatal shooting in Manitoba On June 5, RCMP in Moosomin were updated about a fatal shooting in Manitoba involving one of the sus-pect vehicles from June 4. One female suspect was in custody in Manitoba and one of the male suspects was fatally shot. RCMP Detachments in southeast Saskatch-ewan learned that there may be related suspects in the errea period. RCMP consider details about event area again. RCMP received several reports about suspi-cious vehicles/activity and again members from numer-ous RCMP Detachments responded, including the RCMP Emergency Response Team and air support, along with other Peace Officers including SERM and Sask Highway Collision at Highway 1 and 8 On June 5, RCMP received a report of a two vehicle col-lision at Highway 1 and Highway 8. There were no in-juries but the highway was partially blocked. Members responded, along with Moosomin Fire Department. Ve-hicles were towed.

Suspicious white Dodge truck On June 5, RCMP began receiving complaints of a suspicious vehicle in the RM of Martin. The vehicle is depictous vehicle in the work of Martin. The vehicle is de-scribed as a white Dodge truck with wide fender flares, jacked up, with two barrels in the box weighing the back down. Nothing criminal noted as of this writing, but lots of reports of suspicious activity. The vehicle has still not been located. RCMP is requesting anyone with information about this theft to contact Mossomin RCMP by call-ing 306-435-3361. Information can be submitted anony-mously through CrimeStoppers by calling 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or by submitting a tip online at www.crimestoppers.com

Suspicious vehicle in Moosomin

End the mental health stigma

As we all work together to end the stigma surrounding mental illness, now more than ever, every action counts. Whether you take the time to listen to a loved one, encourage a friend to ask for help, or educate yourself about mental health challenges. Be the solution. Be kind. Edu-cate yourself. Listen and ask. Talk about it. Let's change the way we view mental illness. If you or someone you know is struggling. Reach out. If you or someone you know is in crisis or has thoughts of self harm, take action. • Call 9-1-1

Rocanville Town council Transfer station rates stay the same

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI

LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER A transfer station fee schedule appeared before Town of Rocanville Council dur-ing their regular meeting on June 5, and as Administrator Tanya Strandlund ex-plained, fees aren't increasing. "The fees themselves didn't increase, it's just breaking it out to help be more specific so people know what to expect when they o out there," she said. On the Town of Rocanville website, fees go have remained unchanged since 2017, and a long list of items and their associated rates can be found. For example, residents can expect to be charged two dollars a bag for bagged garbage brought to the trans-fer station. Steel appliances (placed in the steel pile) will cost $20 each—the same price tag as mattresses and furniture. Tires and batteries are not accepted and are directed to be returned to the dealer. The transfer station is currently running summer hours until October 31, Mondays noon to 6 pm; Fridays 2 to 6 pm; and Saturdays from 11 am to 3 pm.

Community Day '25 date set After a highly successful Community Day on June 1, the town is already setting a date for next year's shindig. Mark your calendars for June 7, 2025—it'll be another great party in Rocanville! "Because of the success and the good timing of this previous one, that's the di-rection council wants to go is have it early June so that as many people as possible can attend and participate," Strandlund said

Setting a date early also allows organiz-ers plenty of time to book entertainment.

McNaughton High School Class 6A wins Gateway Nature's Spring Birdwatching Contest

Gateway Nature's Spring Migration Bird-watching Contest has awarded its prizes. Par-ticipants were challenged to epot 20 epocies of birds to spot 20 species of birds that arrived in the local area throughout April and May.

The keen observers who found all 20 species were entered in a draw to win the Grand Prize bundle which included a pair of binoculars, a $25 gift cer-tificate to the Cork and Bone bistro, and more. The winner was Sandy Hominick from Brandon.

Overjoyed, Hominick recalls she was worried she wouldn't find the final bird on her checklist, the ruby-throated hum-mingbird, before the con-test ended. "I remembered seeing one in a particular tree last year. I went back to the tree and, lo and be-hold, there it was, just the bird I needed!"

The second prize bundle included a $25 gift certifi-cate to the Cork and Bone Bistro as well, plus a stylish metal birdfeeder. All of the contest participants were entered in that draw, even if they only found a few of the species. The

From Regina Police Supt. to Chief Coroner

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI

Local JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER Jeff Wagner, a former Regina Police Service superintendent, will take on the role of Saskatchewan's Chief Coroner. The announcement came last week in a press release from the government, filling the vacant position after previous Chief Coroner Clive Weighill announced his retirement back in February.

"Mr. Wagner has a proven track record of building strong relationships with community stakeholders," Justice Minister and Attorney General Bronwyn Eyre said. "I am confident in his ability to lead the Coroners Service and maintain its high standards of public service."

Attorney General Bronwyn Eyre said. "I am confident in his abiliyt to lead the Coroners Service and maintain its high standards of public service." During his time with the RPS, Wagner served as Superintendent of the Community Services Division, previously having managed the Major Crimes/Vulnerable Services Division and South District Division.

A University of Regina alumni, Wagner holds a Bachelor's Degree of Human Justice and an Advanced Certificate in Police Studies. He was also awarded the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal, Saskatchewan Protective Services Medal, and the Police Exemplary Service Medal.
