New pharmacy coming to Moosomin this fall

BY ASHLEY BOCHER

Pharmacist Kari Meyers and her partner John Glasser are renovating the previous Family Foods Grocery Store on Main Street into a pharmacy.

Meyers has worked at Moosomin IDA in the dispensary for the last 10 years and has decided to start her own pharmacy in Moosomin.

Meyers says the new opportunity came after looking into a few options.

"I had an opportunity to potentially buy in as a partner into Neighbourly which is the company that owns RX Drug Mart (which operates the IDA in Moosomin)," she says. "They're a big corporation across Canada. They own almost 300 stores, and I had an opportunity to buy into the Moosomin location only, and after looking at it, it just didn't seem like a very good fit for me. I wasn't going to have as much say in everything. John is a business owner and so he encouraged me to do it on my own. We talked about it a lot. We looked at if it was feasible and if there was a location that would work."

Meyers says they chose the location on Main Street after it had been listed for sale for the past few years.

"This location has been available for about six years. It was just an opportunity that was there—we were looking at all sorts of different options of places that we could feasibly have a pharmacy, whether it was a new build or an existing building and this one just made sense. The location is right across from the doctors' office and right beside the post office."

"If we were going to build, it would be farther out from downtown, which for seniors especially, isn't as convenient as being downtown. They like one-stop shopping so we thought we couldn't not take this location."

She says it has been a lot of work to start the pharmacy, with many different protocols to follow.

"The stages for a pharmacy are a bit more unique than other retail spaces because we have to get the building suitable for a pharmacy and a dispensary. The dispensary is unique in itself as to how everything has to be laid out for proper workflow to be as efficient as we can. Also, to incorporate privacy into a retail building is a little bit tricky. Every pharmacy is licensed by the Saskatchewan College of Pharmacy Professionals, so before we could even start, I had to be approved with our schematics, our layout, of where everything was going to be. It was a bit tricky because we were buying a building, but we didn't know if we would be approved and so now once that's approved I have to get contracts with Saskatchewan Health, Saskatchewan Drug Plan, and PIP (The Pharmaceutical Information Program), and then all of the third-party accounts like Canada Life, Assure, NIHB—there's a million of them it seems. All the behind-the-scenes work of starting up a pharmacy is quite a lot to do, that is on top of what you would need to do for a normal business."

Meyers spoke to local pharmacy business owners before deciding to open her own pharmacy. "I talked to Ty in Langenburg. He opened his own pharmacy and he is with the PharmaChoice banner which I am going to go with as well. We talked to get his take on it and if he had the choice to do it again would he, and he said, 'Absolutely, hands down I would do it again,' so I went up there and took a look around his store to get an idea of what he has done."

Locally owned pharmacy

Meyers says she thinks being a locally owned pharmacy in town will draw customers.

She says the pharmacy will offer pharmacy services and some retail.

"We're aiming to be a mostly professional pharmacy—so pharmacy services and professional care. We are going to have a little bit of front store retail like the typical pharmacy stuff like vitamins, cough and cold, over-the-counter products. We are going to have some space for something extra that is unique to Moosomin, that is health care related, but I don't know what that is yet. I am suggestible. My 12-year-old is sure that it needs confectionery because where on earth would the high school kids go on their lunch breaks if they can't go there."

"I am excited to work for myself and be the decision maker . . . Anywhere that I have ever worked I have treated the business like my own and now it actually will be my own. That is the most exciting for me."

—Kari Meyers

Kari Meyers and John Glasser outside the future Kari's PharmaChoice on Main Street Moosomin.

Starting out in pharmacy

Meyers says she became a pharmacist with the encouragement from her dad.

"I chose pharmacy honestly because my dad told me to. He was a teacher and I was going to be a teacher and he said, 'No you're not.' He told me that I wanted to teach the kids that were like me, the kids who love school, the kids that wanted to be there, and you have to teach all of the students. Then, he actually suggested pharmacy. He was a teacher so he could see students' strong points and weak points and where they would succeed. He guided myself and all of my siblings and we're all in successful careers."

"I graduated from the University of Saskatchewan in 2001. I moved to Medicine Hat just on a whim. They had a recruitment fair at the university in my fourth year so I went and there was a small company called the Boylan group that owned five pharmacies in Medicine Hat so I moved there and lived there for a year. I found that city living is not for me and the pharmacy was open 9 am to 9 pm every day of the week and I didn't like it. Then, I moved to Golden, B.C. and lived there for about six years and it was very cool. My oldest was born there, but I realized I didn't want to raise kids in Golden. Then I moved back to Saskatchewan and wanted to be closer to my parents. I moved to Foam Lake, west of Yorkton. My grandpa's family was from there so it was a bit of a connection. I was there until 2013 and loved it. Then, I made the decision to move to Moosomin and I am super glad I moved back. Since then I have worked at IDA in Moosomin."

Always thought about running her own pharmacy

Meyers says she has always thought of owning her own business one day. "It has always been in the back of my mind. When I lived in Golden, the group there owned four pharmacies and they offered me a 20% partnership, but I wouldn't have any say in it. Then, when I was in Foam Lake, the owner at the time, said, 'Hey, if I chose to retire sometime maybe you want to take it over?' and I thought that was a cool idea, but then they didn't really have any inkling to retire. The idea was always there in the back of my mind, but there was never the option to do it until now."

Lots of work left to do

Meyers says there is lots of work still left to do after getting possession of the building on July 3.

"There is still quite a bit to do. We have torn the building apart as much as we need to. We had to take some drywall off and take out all of the shelving and stuff so it is completely empty now. We have to re-drywall some spots, put new ceiling in, new wiring, we have to plumb a whole bunch of sinks in, and we have to get the shelving, front tills, and a dispensary. Then, I need to have a separate patient care area so I am actually going to build two. It will be used for vaccines, injections, and then a private counselling room."

"The requirement is only one room, but the profession of pharmacy is growing and changing all of the time and if something changes in five years I would rather be prepared for it and have that extra space if I need."

Excited for new pharmacy

She says she is excited to be opening her own pharmacy for the Moosomin area.

"It's a combination of exciting and terrifying. The day I gave my notice at IDA, I sent John a text with the emoji's of a smiley face and a puke face. It feels like both because it is the unknown and the unknown is scary. It is also change and change is scary.

"I am excited to work for myself and be the decision maker. I think it is just being accountable to myself. Anywhere that I have ever worked I have treated the business like my own and now it actually will be my own. That is the most exciting for me."

She says the pharmacy at IDA was always busy and Moosomin would benefit from a third pharmacy.

"Moosomin is definitely big enough to have three pharmacies. I worked in one of the two pharmacies. I think the amount of business at the two pharmacies is pretty equal and IDA is pretty busy. There is definitely room for a third, and Moosomin is growing."

Meyers plans to open her pharmacy by the end of October.

"We're going to be open for late October. We don't have an exact date right now, there are too many variables until it comes closer, but that is our target. We are there every day working on it."

Favourite part of pharmacy

Meyers says she enjoys the people who visit her at the pharmacy and looks forward to seeing familiar faces at her own business.

"I enjoy the people the most. I am a fairly shy person. If we are in a group of people I am not the one talking, I am the one sitting back and listening, but my favourite part is my interaction with anybody that comes into the pharmacy. Whether it is just, 'Hey, how is it going today?' or doing a major counsel on a new medication or doing a med review or any aspect of it."

"I love the people that come into my pharmacy."

"If I can make an impact on somebody else's life, even if it is something small or something bigger to do with their medication management or helping a parent or child, that is one of the best parts of being a pharmacist."

"When somebody is coming into my pharmacy and I know that I helped them, it feels great. When I know I helped them from my own business it's going to be extra rewarding. The rewarding piece of my job when owning my own business will be the same—it is going to be the people that come in to see me."

Construction continues on two new 12-unit apartment buildings being developed by Keller Developments on South Front Street in Moosomin.

Looking Back

Five years ago, 2019:

After swimming lessons wrapped up at the Welwyn Regional Park, a barbecue was held. The barbecue included hot dogs, dessert and drinks, live music by Ryan Bender, and cotton candy served by Borderland Co-op. All of the cooking and serving was done by volunteers, and there was a long line for food. When all was said and done, the event had raised $1,000 for Welwyn Regional Park.

Ten years ago, 2014:

The Elkhorn Agricultural Society held its 121st Fair. Along with various agricultural and horticultural displays, the fair also had an auction, live entertainment, bingo, and kids activities. The fair had artisan work on display, along with horticultural displays. There was light horse judging, a sheep show, and cattle judging.

The 82nd Annual Moose Mountain Professional Rodeo was held in Kennedy. The rodeo featured bull riding, bareback and saddle bronc riding, barrel racing, tie-down roping, steer wrestling, team roping, steer riding, and novice bareback and saddle bronc riding. There were also pancake breakfasts, a parade, kids activities, and a demolition derby, making it the biggest event of the year in Kennedy.

Fifteen years ago, 2009:

Sgt. Gord Stewart of the Moosomin RCMP said that, according to statistics, crime in Moosomin was down slightly despite the influx of crews and other new residents, but certain crimes, especially assaults, were up significantly in the last year.

Langbank Co-op board of directors member Les Stutt cut the ribbon to officially open the Co-op's new Wawota C-Store and Gas Bar.

Twenty years ago, 2004:

Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region's Population and Public Health Services urged the public to be vigilant against E. coli, because of a high number of E. coli cases in the health region.

One hundred years ago, 1924:

The submarine V-1, twice as large as any undersea fighter previously built for the United States, was launched at the navy yards at Portsmouth, New Hampshire. The new submarine was designed to accompany a battle fleet at sea in any weather and at any speed at which the fleet was capable of making. It was the first of a flotilla of nine authorized in congress in 1916.

Public gets answers during smart meter open house

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

A number of people attended an open house at the MCC Centre on Tuesday to find out more about the coming smart water meters in Moosomin.

"It went fairly well," says KGS environmental engineer David Germin. "There weren't too many people there, about 25. It was better than we thought, actually!"

The group wanted to give the public a chance to ask questions about the new smart meter system coming to Moosomin, likely early next year.

"People were asking about some of the features, and then how this procedure's going to lay out," Germin said. "There wasn't anything that we weren't able to respond to."

The new meters will streamline how water usage readings are taken and boast a number of features such as high and low flow indicators and alert to possible line breaks. Another useful tool is the ability to track water usage with a smartphone app.

"The next step would just be finalizing the things on our end, getting equipment ordered," Germin explained. "They'll likely start with the communications part of the work, the antenna and the infrastructure required to actually read the meters remotely and then after once they've got that mostly established, they would start doing the work inside the home and contacting people. That probably won't start until January of next year."

Residents can expect a phone call prior to the meter changeover as contractors will be creating appointments.

We need our WETLANDS

The Saskatchewan Government is spending your tax dollars on a big media campaign to convince you that we have enough wetlands to drain up to 2 million more acres of this vital resource while ignoring the impacts.

Decades of drainage and destruction are already causing:

- toxic algae blooms in our lakes and rivers
- polluting drinking water supplies
- decimated critical wildlife habitat and game and fish populations
- downstream flooding and widespread drought

We are launching an awareness campaign called Wetlands For Tomorrow to create a safe space for this conversation and we need your help.

Please share your stories and donate to 'Wetlands for Tomorrow' by an e-transfer to wetlandsfortomorrow@gmail.com, or by mailing a cheque payable to Wetlands for Tomorrow.

Paul Skenes MLB's newest pitching sensation

Baseball fans who happen to be Baby Boomers will likely recall the hysteria surrounding pitcher Mark (The Bird) Fidrych in 1976. Ditto for Fernando Valenzuela in 1981. More recently, Steven Strasbourg of the Washington Nationals came into the majors with a Cy Young future almost guaranteed.

In 2024, we're saying hello to the newest member of that pitching phenom club, Paul Skenes of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The careers of Fidrych, Valenzuela and Strasbourg hardly turned them into Hall of Famers, but Pirates' fans are hoping the same doesn't hold true for Skenes, who has been setting the National League on fire as a first-year player and gained the celebratory role of starting pitcher in the recent mid-season all-star game.

Fidrych, who started the all-star game in 1976 after exploding onto the American League scene as a rookie, fizzled out after he posted a rookie-season record of 19-9. He told reporters he talked to himself before every pitch, but reporters suggested he was talking to the ball, adding a layer of mythology to his talent. He played only four more years in the majors and had a ho-hum career record of 29-19.

Valenzuela was a 20-year-old rookie with the Dodgers in 1981 and finished that year with eight shutouts, although his win-loss numbers (13-7) were hardly overwhelming. His career lasted longer than Fidrych's, but a 157-137 career record didn't come close to screaming 'Hall of Fame.'

Strasbourg came into the majors with a can't-miss label, but he was hardly spectacular. He won 15 games on three occasions and his best year, 2019, when he went 18-6, was also his last as a regular. He started eight games over the next three seasons, posting a 1-4 record, and retired due to a nerve and blood disorder that required surgery to remove a rib and two neck muscles.

And now there's the fireballing Skenes. In 11 starts this year prior to the all-star game, Skenes and his 'splinter'

Bruce Penton

— a combination splitter/sinker — has confounded NL hitters. He had a 6-0 record going into the midsummer classic and in two of his starts, May 17 vs. the Cubs and July 11 vs. Milwaukee, he pitched six- and seven-inning no-hitters respectively, but was pulled due to pitch-count reasons. He had given up only 48 hits in 66 innings but compiled a whopping 89 strikeouts and only 13 walks. His no-hitter days await.

Skenes didn't disappoint during his short stint as the all-star game starter. He went the traditional one inning, throwing strikes on 11 of his 16 pitches and giving up no hits and one walk.

The rookie flash is on the verge of joining Shohei Ohtani as the fac of baseball, and might soon compare well with LeBron James, Connor McDavid, Scottie Scheffler and Patrick Mahomes as major sports icons.

Half a season of sensational play didn't ultimately pay off for Fidrych, but baseball fans in general and Pirates' fans in particular are hoping to watch Skenes stymie MLB hitters for many years to come.

On July 15, RCMP received a call to the Whitewood Nursing Home regarding an intoxicated female trying to get inside the building. When RCMP arrived, staff advised that the female had left on foot and was not wearing any shoes. RCMP located the female a short distance away, walking barefoot. The intoxicated female ran from police and attempted to hide inside the box of a pick-up truck. The female was arrested for being intoxicated in public and was provided a free night stay at the RCMP Bed and Breakfast until she was sober.

Female smashing things

On July 15, RCMP responded to a residence on Ochapowace where a female was intoxicated and was smashing items in the residence. RCMP attended and the female had gone to bed and was now sleeping. The homeowners advised that they no longer needed RCMP.

Male smashing things

On July 16, RCMP received a call from a residence on Kahkewistahaw First Nations where a male was intoxicated and smashing things in the residence. RCMP attended but the male had already left the residence. RCMP made patrols but were unable to locate the suspect.

Intoxicated female arrested

On July 16, RCMP attended a residence in Broadview where a female was intoxicated and smashing things in the residence. RCMP attended and placed the intoxicated female under arrest. The female was then placed in "time out" at the RCMP Bed and Breakfast to think about her actions.

Cow steaking things out

On July 16, RCMP were called to a lone cow steaking things out on Highway 1, east of Whitewood. RCMP located the cow's owners who were not amused with the situation.

Hit and run at gas station

On July 18, RCMP were called to a hit and run at the gas station at Grenfell. Someone had run into a parked semi and cracked the plastic cover by the fuel tank. RCMP attended and were unable to determine who hit the semi or when it was damaged. RCMP are requesting anyone with information about this hit and run contact the Broadview RCMP by calling 306-696-5200. Information can be submitted anonymously through CrimeStoppers by calling 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or submitting a tip online at www.saskcrimestoppers.com

Elderly man needed food to eat

On July 19, RCMP attended a theft at the grocery store at Whitewood. An elderly male left the store with a full bag of groceries that he didn't pay for. The male then left the store driving a lawn mower. RCMP tracked the male down who advised that he was very hungry and did not have any money until he got paid the next week. The grocery store ended up extending the male credit until the male had money. The male was advised that he would be charged with theft if he didn't return and pay for his groceries the following week.

Injured crow at business

On July 19, RCMP were called to an injured crow at a business in Broadview. The RCMP advised the caller to try and contact a bird sanctuary or animal rehabilitation centre before the situation escalated into a "murder."

Male steals truck and uses debit card to purchase gift cards

On July 16, RCMP received a call from a female that had her black GMC Duramax truck stolen from Virden the day prior. The female advised that her purse was also stolen in the truck. The female advised that her card had just been used at the gas station in Grenfell because she left a small amount of money on her debit card on purpose to see if the culprit would use her cards. The male purchased fuel and gift cards from the gas station. Unfortunately, the male culprit had already left the gas station but RCMP were able to obtain video and photos of the culprit. RCMP were soon called back to the gas station when the same male suspect returned and was now driving a white Ford Super Duty truck. The male used the gift cards to purchase fuel for his truck. RCMP were able to locate the suspect very shortly after he left the gas station but were forced to terminate the pursuit due to public safety. RCMP then put out a Crime Watch Report and included photos of both the suspect, and suspect vehicle and were contacted later that night when a vigilant civilian identified the suspect and watched him go into a business in Melville. RCMP then walked into the business and placed the male under arrest before he could flee. The male has remained in RCMP custody facing several charges.

Intoxicated male wanted to fight

On July 20, RCMP were called to a residence on Ochapowace where an intoxicated male showed up and wanted to fight people in the residence. The male then left the residence driving a dusty Ford truck. RCMP made patrols for the impaired male but were unable to locate him.

Passed out on Main Street

On July 20, RCMP located an intoxicated male passed out on the side of Main Street in Broadview. The male was helped to his feet and placed under arrest for being intoxicated in public. The male spent the night at the RCMP bed and breakfast until he was sober.

Assault and attempted robbery

On July 20, RCMP attended an assault with weapon and attempted robbery in Kipling. An intoxicated female armed with a knife attempted to obtain keys from two males and take a vehicle. The two males used a rake to stop the female from assaulting them and knock the knife away from her. RCMP attended and the female was still trying to attack the two males and try and obtain the keys to the vehicle. RCMP placed the female under arrest. The female was lodged at the RCMP Bed and Breakfast where she has remained in order to attend court.

Woman ran to neighbour's house

On July 21, RCMP attended an assault in Grenfell where a male had assaulted a female. The female ran to the neighbour's house with an injury to her head and called the police. RCMP attended and placed the male under arrest for the assault. The male was then taken and provided a room at the RCMP Bed and Breakfast.

Scam of the week

Stealing Credit Card Information

These types of scams can work some various ways but I will briefly describe one way scammers have used to steal a person's credit card information.

First, you receive a call from someone claiming to work in the security department of your bank or credit card company. They've supposedly flagged your account due to unusual purchase activity overnight and are calling to find out whether your card has been compromised. They then ask if you've made a particular purchase; once you reply that you haven't, they assure you they will credit your account for the amount.

To verify the credit, the caller recites your home address (correctly which they have found on the internet) and says you can call the 1-800 number on the back of your card later if you have questions. Finally, they ask you to prove that you are in possession of the credit card by asking you the number and to read out the three or four-digit CVV (Card Verification Value) security number on the back of your card. After you do this, they respond that you are correct, thank you, and hang up.

Unfortunately, the caller now has all the information required—your name, address, card number and CVV.

It's okay not to be okay!

I want to ensure that if someone needs help the Suicide Prevention line is always available in the paper for them. We want to encourage everyone to reach out for help and talk to someone if they can. No matter how bad things may seem, remember that they can always get better. Life can be very difficult to say the least.

Please reach out and check in with friends, co-workers, and family to see how they are doing. It's a perfectly normal question to ask people how they are doing. Don't let people suffer in silence.

If you see someone that you believe needs some help but won't accept help from you, please let the police or their family know. In Saskatchewan you can call/text the mental health crisis line at 9-8-8 Counselling Connect Saskatchewan Canadian Mental Health Association 1-306-384-9333.

Tips for choosing the right lunchbox for your kid

Choosing the right lunchbox for your child ensures their meals stay fresh, safe and enjoyable throughout the school day. Here are four important things to consider when selecting a lunchbox:

1. Material. Look for BPA-free, food-grade plastic or stainless-steel containers. These materials are easy to clean and maintain, reducing the risk of food contamination. Additionally, stainless steel is durable, making it a great option if your child is prone to dropping or tossing their lunchbox around.

2. Capacity. Choosing a lunchbox that fits your child's appetite is essential. For instance, if your child is a big eater, you may want to consider a larger box. Remember that a lunchbox that's too big or too small can result in food waste or hunger.
3. Compartments. Look for a lunchbox with multiple compartments for better organization and portion control. Compartments can also prevent various food items from getting squished or mixed together. Some lunchboxes come with removable dividers so that you can adjust the size of the compartments based on your child's needs.
4. Insulation. Prioritize insulating and leak-proof features. This helps keep food fresh and prevent spills, especially perishable items and liquids. Look for lunchboxes with insulated compartments or include an ice pack to maintain the desired temperature.

Lastly, let your child help choose their lunchbox so they'll be more excited about using it. Choose designs, like cartoon characters or animals, that reflect their personality and interests, making lunchtime an enjoyable experience.

Teaching your child good time management skills

Teaching your kids good time management skills can be challenging, but it's essential for their success in academics and life. Here are some tips to help you teach these skills to your children:

CREATE A VISUAL SCHEDULE OR PLANNER

A physical schedule or a planner can help kids organize their daily activities and deadlines. It can enhance their organizational skills and instill a sense of responsibility and accountability. Plus, it can be a fun and creative activity for you and your child to do together.

You can also utilize digital tools like calendars or task management apps tailored to kids.

ENCOURAGE TASK BREAK-DOWN

Teach your child the concept of time blocking, where they allocate specific time slots for different activities or subjects. Breaking tasks into smaller, manageable chunks can promote productivity and prevent your child from feeling overwhelmed.

SET REALISTIC GOALS AND DEADLINES

Teach your child the importance of setting realistic goals and deadlines by helping them understand the concept of time estimation and the consequences of procrastination. This will empower them to make informed decisions and own their time.

Most importantly, lead by example. Let your child see you planning your day, setting goals and managing your time effectively in real-life scenarios. Children often learn best through observation and copying their parents' actions.

Remember, teaching your child good time management skills is an invest-

Helping your child establish effective homework habits early

Ensuring your kid gets into good homework habits from the start is essential for them to do well in school later on. Here are a few simple ways you can help your child become a homework wiz:

- Create a designated homework space free from distractions, allowing your child to focus solely on their tasks.
- Use positive language to help your child view homework as an opportunity to learn and grow instead of a chore.
- Set a consistent homework routine to reinforce discipline and time management skills.

• Encourage your child to break down assignments into manageable chunks and create a study schedule that fosters independence and responsibility.

• Provide praise and positive reinforcement for completing tasks. This supports their efforts and motivates them to continue practicing good study habits.

Establishing effective homework habits fosters a lifelong love for learning!

Sleep schedule: strategies for transitioning from summer

Shifting from a relaxed summer sleep schedule to a structured school routine can be challenging for children and parents. Here are some strategies to make the transition smoother:

ENCOURAGE PHYSICAL ACTIVITY

Regular exercise can help children fall asleep faster and enjoy deeper sleep. Encourage outdoor play or physical activities during the day, but avoid vigorous exercise close to bedtime.

GRADUALLY ADJUST BEDTIME

Adjust your child's bedtime and wake-up times about a week before school starts, shifting them earlier by 15 to 30 minutes each night until you reach the desired schedule. This gradual transition will help your child's body adjust to the new routine without feeling too abrupt.

Sticking to the same schedule on weekends is essential to maintain a consistent sleep pattern!

LIMIT SCREEN TIME BEFORE BED

Encourage your child to power down electronic devices at least an hour before bedtime to reduce exposure to blue light, which can disrupt sleep patterns. If your child must use electronic devices before bedtime, consider using blue light filters or adjusting the brightness settings to reduce the impact on sleep.

CREATE A CALMING BEDTIME ROUTINE

Establish a consistent bedtime routine to signal your child that it's time to wind down and prepare for sleep. This includes activities like reading, bathing or listening to soft music. Try to create a relaxing environment in your child's bedroom by adjusting the lighting and temperature to promote better sleep.

These tips can help your child ease into a new sleep schedule and start the school year feeling well-rested and ready to learn.

The importance of self-care: mental health tips for university students

University life is challenging! With academics, social pressures and newfound independence, it's easy for mental health to take a backseat. However, prioritizing self-care is crucial for maintaining overall well-being and dealing with the ups and downs of university life. Here are some mental health tips tailored for university students:

- 1. Prioritize sleep. Adequate sleep is crucial for cognitive function and emotional well-being. Aim for seven to nine hours of sleep per night and establish a consistent sleep schedule.
- 2. Practice stress management. Find healthy ways to manage stress, such as mindfulness meditation, deep breathing exercises and yoga. Engage in activities that bring you joy and relaxation.
- 3. Stay active. Regular physical activity releases endorphins, which boost mood and reduce stress. Incorporate exercise into your routine, whether going for a walk, hitting the gym or participating in sports.
- 4. Maintain a balanced diet. Fuel your body with nutritious foods that provide sustained energy and support mental health. Limit caffeine and alcohol consumption, as they can exacerbate anxiety and disrupt sleep.

- 5. Make social connections. Foster meaningful relationships with friends, family and peers. Surround yourself with supportive individuals who uplift and encourage you during challenging times.
- 6. Seek support. Don't hesitate to ask for help if you struggle. Many universities offer counselling services, support groups and resources to assist students in managing their mental health concerns.
- 7. Set boundaries. Avoid committing to too many things at once and prioritize your well-being. Establish boundaries that protect your time, energy and mental health.
- 8. Practice self-compassion. Be kind to yourself and recognize that it's okay not to be okay sometimes. Treat yourself with the same compassion and understanding you would offer a friend.

SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS OF MENTAL ILLNESS

Despite your best efforts, the daily grind of university life can take its toll on the most resilient students, leading to feelings of overwhelm, burnout and exhaustion. Get help if you're experiencing any of these symptoms:

- Persistent feelings of sadness or emptiness
- Changes in appetite or weight
- Difficulty concentrating or making decisions
- Loss of interest in activities you once enjoyed
- Changes in sleep patterns, such as insomnia or oversleeping
- Feelings of worthlessness or guilt
- Fatigue or loss of energy
- Irritability or agitation
- Thoughts of death or suicide

Self-care isn't selfish — it's vital for maintaining your mental, emotional and physical health. Remember that your mental health matters, and seeking support is a sign of strength, not weakness.

Sask continues to lead nation in retail trade

On July 19, Statistics Canada released retail trade figures for May 2024, which placed Saskatchewan first in the nation for year-over-year growth. The province's retail trade sales increased by 6.1 per cent, totaling $2.2 billion in May 2024 (seasonally adjusted), compared to May 2023.

"Saskatchewan continues to be first in the nation in this key economic indicator. In practice this demonstrates the health and strength of our economy and signals continued strong growth under this government's strong and stable leadership," Minister of Trade and Export Development Jeremy Harrison said. "Our government will continue to take measures to make Saskatchewan the best place to do business and keep inflation low. This in turn creates new jobs and economic opportunities for Saskatchewan people."

The Monthly Retail Trade Survey compiles data on sales, including e-commerce sales, and the amount of retail locations by province, territory, and selected census metropolitan areas from a sample of retailers. Retail sales is a measure of total receipts at stores, or establishments, that sell goods and services to final consumers.

The provincial economy continues to see substantial growth recently. Saskatchewan currently has the lowest rate of inflation according to the Consumer Price Index, at 1.4 per cent. Exports are experiencing significant growth, totaling over $101.9 billion for 2022 and 2023 combined. This is a 52.2 per cent increase from the previous two-year period of 2020-2021, which saw $66.9 billion in total exports.

Statistics Canada's latest GDP numbers also indicate that Saskatchewan's 2023 real GDP reached an all-time high of $77.9 billion, increasing by $1.2 billion, or 1.6 per cent. This places Saskatchewan second in the nation for real GDP growth, and above the national average of 1.2 per cent.

Private capital investment is projected to reach $14.2 billion in 2024, an increase of 14.4 per cent over 2023. This is the highest anticipated percentage increase in Canada.

The province has revealed "Securing the Next Decade of Growth: Saskatchewan's Investment Attraction Strategy," in conjunction with the launch of the investSK.ca website. These initiatives are positioned to amplify growth in Saskatchewan, serving as pivotal instruments in driving further development.

OBITUARIES

CORINNE LILLIAN CRAWFORD
1933-2024

It is with great sadness that we announce that Corinne Lillian Crawford of Moosomin, Saskatchewan, passed away with family at her bedside at Hospice of Glengarda in Saskatoon, on Thursday, July 18, 2024, at the age of 90.

Corinne was born in 1933 to Forbes and Lillian Grant on their farm in Mawer, Saskatchewan. She was the youngest and only girl of five children.

Corinne leaves behind her children: Linda (Brad) Lund, Jim (Lois), Cheryl (Vern) Windrim, Glen (Damaris), Grant (Trina), eleven grandchildren and four great-grandsons.

Corinne was predeceased by her husband of 65 years, Lawrence James Crawford, who passed away on May 28, 2024.

Corinne grew up riding horseback and played softball as a back catcher at Mawer. She attended boarding school in Regina from Grade 10 onward and continued to play softball, along with other sports, including basketball.

Corinne joined the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve in March of 1954 and went on to work at the provincial lab in Regina.

Corinne met Lawrence through curling and they were married on September 27, 1958. They took over the Crawford family farm where she farmed alongside Lawrence.

Corinne was an avid and competitive curler, active member of Bethel United Church, elected board member of Moosomin School Division, school bus driver, and active in many other ways in the community.

A joint celebration of life for both Corinne and Lawrence will be held at Bethel United Church in Moosomin on Monday, July 29, 2024, at 10 a.m. A luncheon following the service will be held at the Legion.

In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Corinne Crawford may be made to the Moosomin Hospital SEICC, the Canadian Cancer Society, or to a charity of your choice.
